

Scholarships available!
No income restrictions!

Enroll today!

Do most of your course work online!

UAA CRS Certificate Program: Courses for People Who Work with Children or Youth with Challenging Behaviors

~~Teaching Social Skills~~

May — July, 2009

Followed by online sessions and a practicum you can do at work
CRN 52486 May 14 — July 31, 2009

Not just for people who work in treatment centers!

This course introduces students to many factors that influence success with kids, including:

- Typical and atypical child development, as well as the tasks children need to accomplish at key stages.
- The effects things like trauma, attachment disorders, brain injuries (TBI, FASD...), and medications have on treatment outcomes.
- Strategies for supporting relationships with families and transition issues.
- Wrap around service planning.

People who work with kids with challenging behaviors or mental health diagnoses have chosen one of the most demanding careers, but also one of the most rewarding. They go by different titles: Foster parent, family or child advocate, ICWA worker, group home staff, or residential facility staff. They all share the commitment to help kids develop resiliency and skills necessary to face life's challenges. The CRS Certificate Program is dedicated to those adults. The CRS courses are specifically designed to help students gain the skills necessary to be successful with challenging children.

To enroll contact:
Laurie McLaughlin
UAA
Center for Human Development
anldc1@uaa.alaska.edu
264-6265 or 1-800-243-2199
www.crs-cert.com